Landscape Architect
&
Certified Planner

Dan Mallach is a Registered Landscape Architect and Certified Planner with TCA. His educational background is in natural area and cultural resource management, community planning, plant ecology, and the fine arts. His professional practice includes open space and recreation design, master planning and site analysis, and working with communities to achieve zoning and land development objectives. He is also proficient in a variety of computer graphics applications, and is an experienced photographer.

Dan has worked with several public institutions and government entities, including the the cultural resources divisions of the United States Air Force and the United States Army Corps of Engineers. He is an Eagle Scout, and also spent many summers in the outdoors as a YMCA camper and leader, learning, and then teaching, about the natural world.

At TCA, Dan assists in design projects and the preparation of ordinance materials, writes land development plan code compliance reviews, and performs site inspections and yield analyses. He brings to his work the desire to promote civic strength through a combination of wildlife conservation, sustainable land management and innovative smart growth.
